Opportunities for all Equity Pathways to an Australia Award Scholarship

Background

The Equity Pathways Program provides support to qualifying Cambodians to help them meet certain Australia Awards Scholarships eligibility requirements.

1

The purpose of the Equity Pathways Program (EPP) is to improve social inclusion outcomes in relation to Australia Awards Scholarships so that Australia Awards Cambodia (AAC) effectively progresses the equity, equality, and social inclusion goals of the Australian Aid program.

The Equity Target Groups ( ETGs)

The EPP focusses on Equity Target Groups (ETGs) – sub-groups in Cambodian society who have typically experienced the effects of social, educational, and structural barriers and disadvantage which has effectively limited their access to opportunity, including access to scholarships.

Equity support is offered on the basis that past disadvantage has limited opportunity and adversely affected the ability of individuals in these groups to compete on an equal basis, alongside their peers. In this way, equity support offers ‘catch up’ opportunities with the aim of enabling individuals from ETGs to successfully compete in merit-based processes.

The EPP therefore has the following goal:

To support the achievement of social inclusion outcomes in Australia Awards Cambodia by increasing the capacity of high quality, current and future applicants who are members of Equity Target Groups, to meet English language and eligibility standards and successfully compete in a merit-based selection process.

EPP supported me to improve my English skills and access a workplace internship opportunity.

Finally, I was awarded an Australia Awards Scholarship in 2022, and I am doing my master degree in Australia, nowadays.

Australia Awards Cambodia ( AAC) recognises five Equity Target Groups:

1. Women
2. People with disability
3. Men who live and work in the provincial areas of Cambodia
4. Indigenous and Ethnic minorities
5. Other Marginalised groups such as LGBTQIA+
